

ABSTRACT - "Community Health and Geothermal Heat Pumps"

The impact of recent Federal tax incentives for geothermal heat pumps will greatly increase the density of geothermal heat pumps in communities.

The paper discusses the impact of geothermal heat pumps and the quality of community air and water resources.

Information from New England-wide geothermal installations, Federal and State Environmental and Energy Agencies will be provided, and related to residential and commercial geothermal heat pumps installations.

Benefits of reduced operational costs, health costs and other community benefits will be presented.
